Total up your various scores.

How did you do? The higher your total score, the more your priorities show a commitment to stewardship. If you scored a perfect 50, you might want to give the assessment to your spouse or a friend for a second opinion!

Take note of where you scored on the low end, and make a commitment to do better in those categories. If you get discouraged, just think how wonderful it will be to hear those words, “Well done, good and faithful steward.” (See Matthew 25:14-30.)
